

Why Christians Should Cut Charles Darwin a Bit of Slack

Introduction

Charles Darwin was an early scientist who is credited as being the father of evolution by natural selection a.k.a. Darwinism.

He had meagre tools amounting to a scalpel and a microscope and in that era there was no knowledge of genes, chromosomes, DNA, blood types, sugars or any other means by which he could have correctly categorised the specimens he examined.

He certainly made errors, but he did get a lot right too. This short article is a leader for a larger study that is also in this Library*.

Geoff Rooke

**The Story of Creation Re-Visited through Ancient Song Lines*